

CASE NAME: NICKEL BACKTRACK
ATTENDING OFFICER(S): JAMIE ECKMAN
CHICAGO POLICE DEPARTMENT
CRIME LOCATION: LINCOLN PARK

Answer: HEADS or OBVERSE

This puzzle is a physical asset which looks like this:

Many pennies all heads up, stuck to a board. The puzzle sheet gives instructions to bring a nickel. Placing the nickel on the nickel-sized start circle in the center of the board, there is one way to remove the nickel from the penny labyrinth by sliding it. The puzzle sheet also gives the clue: "Mr. L likes to make eye contact with himself sometimes. This creeps out Mr. J when he has to walk past." Several pairs of pennies (Mr. L, Lincoln) face each other across the path to the exit (Mr. J, Jefferson, on the nickel):
